ACCREDITATION DETAILS

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the completion of the program, learners should better be able to:

1. Recognize the clinical manifestations of Antiphospholipid Syndrome (APS) and apply current diagnostic criteria and management strategies to improve patient outcomes.
2. Identify early signs and symptoms of Spondyloarthritis (SpA), including both axial and peripheral forms, to facilitate timely diagnosis and intervention.
3. Differentiate between inflammatory and non-inflammatory musculoskeletal pain syndromes.
4. Implement evidence-based pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic pain management strategies tailored to individual patient needs.
5. Assess the potential role of GLP-1 receptor agonists in managing inflammatory and metabolic comorbidities in rheumatology patients.
6. Evaluate the clinical efficacy and safety profiles of IL-23 inhibitors in the treatment of various rheumatic diseases.
7. Integrate artificial intelligence and digital health tools into rheumatology practice to enhance patient engagement, clinical decision-making, and operational efficiency.

TARGET AUDIENCE

The target audience for this forum includes registered nurses (RNs), nurse practitioners (NPs), physician assistants (PAs), licensed practical and vocational nurses (LPNs/LVNs), and other healthcare professionals who are engaged in clinical practice, education, research, and advocacy for the care of adult and pediatric patients with rheumatic diseases. The content of this education will also be applicable to healthcare professionals new to rheumatology, as well as students considering entering the field of rheumatology.

EVALUATION PROCESS

The online evaluation will be made available at the conclusion of the event. You will receive an email with instructions on how to log in to the website to complete the online evaluation. Once completed, your Certificate of Credit and Attendance will be calculated and saved to your online profile and will be available to download and print.
